GDANSK, POLAND – March 25, 2011 – aideMMedia, a European game and entertainment icon with more than 1 million games sold, has launched its next flagship game, “City of Secrets”, a classical, point-and-click mystery adventure game developed for the iPad, Mac, iPhone and iPod Touch. The game boasts brilliant HD graphics optimized for modern touch interfaces and was developed with the iPad, Mac and iPhone high-resolution retina display in mind. The game is available through the iTunes App Store and the Mac App Store.

In City of Secrets, a world of revolution, mystery and adventure awaits players as they follow Rex, the Brave Dog, as he accidentally falls into an underground city of moles where he is captured and imprisoned for espionage. Players will be challenged as they must pull together the clues and solve puzzles to help Mr. Moles free Rex from jail and uncover the sinister plot.

City of Secrets was designed to be challenging for adults and includes a hint feature that allows younger players to also enjoy the game. In addition to its own titles, AideM Media is also the development muscle behind many other successful games, including games with characters licensed from Disney and Warner Brothers.

“City of Secrets is a full featured tap/point adventure game, and like ‘Angry Birds,’ appeals to gamers of all ages,” said Karolina Szablewska-Olejarz, president of aideMMedia. “The characters will make you laugh while the gameplay will stretch your brain. We believe we have created the perfect adventure game and early reviews indicate that fans agree.”
